LESA Library Wins International Award for Best Publication 2016

The Legal Education Society of Alberta (LESA) Library was named the international Association for Continuing Legal Education's (ACLEA) Best Publication, winning this year's top award in the small organizations category. This award is one of only 21 annual awards granted to competitors representing more than 300 organizations.

The dynamic, fully editable, and mobile-friendly LESA Library is LESA's premier educational product. Developed and maintained by leading practitioners in various areas of law, this convenient, subscription-based online resource provides substantive legal information, fillable forms, and practice management tips. The LESA Library also includes content from LESA's practice manuals and fundamentals series as well as hundreds of downloadable seminar papers.

ACLEA's annual Best Awards are highly competitive. The winners of these awards represent high level achievement by all staff and volunteers involved. ACLEA formally presented the award for professional excellence to LESA at the Annual Meeting of ACLEA in Seattle, WA on August 2, 2016.

About LESA

LESA was founded in 1975 to provide sound pre-call training for students-at-law and quality continuing professional development for the entire profession thereafter. Today LESA delivers face-to-face legal education and educational resources to the entire spectrum of Alberta's legal community. While LESA's content, delivery, and educational methodologies have evolved over time, its essential function has not. LESA remains the lifelong partner of the legal profession in a common pursuit of continuing legal excellence. For more information visit LESA.org.
